

Craig Kyle Hemphill Appointed Co-counsel to Lead Defendant in Scarecrow Bandit Case

21 Jul 2009

DALLAS, July 21, 2009—Lawyer Craig Kyle Hemphill of Craig Kyle Hemphill Law Offices PLLC, who represents individuals and corporations in federal white collar criminal matters, was appointed by the Northern District of Texas as defense co-counsel for Mr. Tony R. Hewitt in USA v. Duffey et al (3:08-cr-00167-B), U.S. District Court. Mr. Hemphill joins with Randall D. Parker of the Law Office of Randall D. Parker.

"We look forward to fleshing out the details of this case and making sure that Mr. Hewitt receives a fair trial based on the merits," said Craig Kyle Hemphill. Hemphill is a well-known lawyer in the Dallas and Houston, Texas communities. He's served governmental entities, international law firms, advised small to multinational corporations, and represented individuals regarding various corporate, criminal and litigation matters.

"I'm pleased to team with Craig on this matter," said Randy Parker of the Law Office of Randall D. Parker. "I believe that our team will offer Mr. Hewitt the best possible defense concerning his case, and we are intent on prevailing in this matter," said Parker.

"I've always been impressed with Randy's intellectual abilities and trial skills," said Hemphill. Hemphill also stated, "To work with Randy on in this serious matter on behalf of Mr. Hewitt is an honor."

Hemphill, a native Texan, earned a Juris Doctor degree, Magna Cum Laude (Third in Class) from Thurgood Marshall School of Law, Texas Southern University, where he served as the Editor-in-Chief on the Thurgood Marshall Law Review from 1997-1999, earning Highest Honors in Appellate Litigation, Administrative Law, Federal Jurisdiction, Consumer Rights, Trial Simulation, Advanced Criminal Law and Constitutional Law. He completed further graduate work at Perkins School of Theology, Southern Methodist University, earning a Masters of Divinity in Theology, Cum Laude, focusing on ethics and culture, and he received the 2009 B'nai B'rith Award in Social Ethics for scholarly competence in the field of social ethics and personal commitment to social causes. Hemphill is also a graduate of University of Texas at Arlington, where he earned a Bachelor of Science in Economics.

Craig Kyle Hemphill Law Offices PLLC offers legal and consulting services in various transactional and select litigation matters. For additional information, visit www.ckhlawoffices.com/.